

PRESS FOR BETTER SAFETY

BiopSafe®

Biopsy Sample System

Formalin capsuled lid for safe and fast biopsy handling.

IT'S ABOUT REMOVING A RECOGNIZED RISK...

One of the most common problems with biopsy handling is the risk of being exposed to formalin and formaldehyde either through touch or inhalation.

The IARC, which is the Cancer Agency of the World Health Organization, classifies formaldehyde as a category 1b carcinogen.*

Suited to a wide range of biopsy procedures, BiopSafe offers the same quality sample fixation you're used to, but with additional safety.

PRODUCT BENEFITS:

- Safe sample handling with no exposure to formalin or formaldehyde via touch or inhalation
- Ready in seconds
- No sensory irritation
- Optimal formalin volumes minimizes waste and expensive disposal costs

THE SECRET IS IN THE LID

The Biosafe system consists of a small, easy to use container (vial) with formalin capsuled in the lid. The specimen is placed into the container, and the lid is screwed in place. Depressing the top of the lid allows the formalin to flow down and cover the sample. No formalin is released outside the container in liquid or vapor form.

STEP BY STEP

1 Remove the blue lid.

2 The specimen is placed in the vial.

3 The lid is screwed on.

4 The formalin is released with a press of the thumb.

5 The formalin and the biopsy is mixed.

6 The biopsy is ready for transportation.

BiopSafe®
